GERE'S 'UNFAITHFUL' RELATIONSHIP

Married actor GETS COZY WITH NEWLY-SEPARATED DIANE LANE

SKIRT-CHASER Richard Gere has infuriated his wife Carey Lowell by rushing to comfort gorgeous Diane Lane after her recent divorce announcement.

The handsome actor, 63, damaged his own shaky marriage by letting Diane – his co-star in the steamy 2008 film "Unfaithful" – cry on his shoulder about her split from Josh Brolin, say sources. At the time, Gere was in Los Angeles for the Academy Awards without his wife.

"CAREY IS SEETHING THAT RICHARD was the first to rush in and help a damsel in distress," revealed an insider. "She knows he enjoys playing that role and believes he flirts with every vulnerable woman he stumbles upon."

Richard infuriated wife Carey Lowell

Still, "Carey doesn't think it's her husband's job to console Diane," said the insider.

In an explosive showdown, Richard was read the riot act by his 52-year-old wife. Carey eventually stormed out of the room with Richard yelling after her that she was being paranoid for no reason, according to the source.

As The ENQUIRER reported late last year, the couple – who wed in 2002 and have a 13-year-old son together – had a huge dustup when Richard flirted with an attractive blonde in an East Hampton, N.Y., restaurant.

Although Gere's reps denied any problem at the time, our insider insists that Carey is fed up with Richard's roving eye – and his comforting Diane, 48, may be the final straw.

Concluded the insider: "I wouldn't be surprised if a divorce announcement comes from Richard and Carey as well."

J.Lo fury OVER MARC'S MEGABUCK$ LOVER

JENNIFER LOPEZ is furious that Marc Anthony is dating a 22-year-old hottie who's filthy rich!

Marc's new squeeze is blue-eyed beauty Chloe Green, an heiress to a British retail empire, and insiders say J.Lo, 43, is seething because Marc has one-upped her 25-year-old boy toy, back-up dancer Casper Smart.

"Jennifer always felt a certain pride in landing Casper, who looks young enough to be her son," said an insider.

"BUT MARC BELIEVES he's trumped her with Chloe, who at 22 is three years younger than Casper and incredibly rich to boot."

Chloe – whose father is billionaire businessman and Topshop owner Sir Philip Green – packed on the PDA with salsa king Marc, 44, during a visit to Disneyland with his and J.Lo's 5-year-old twins, Max and Emme. And that enraged the former "American Idol" judge, said the source.

"Jennifer couldn't stand to see Marc and Chloe kissing and hugging in front of the kids," revealed the source. "And she practically tore her hair out when she saw Chloe holding the twins. "Even worse, Jennifer has known Chloe and her father since Chloe was a teenager. She feels totally betrayed, but Marc feels he's just giving his ex a taste of her own medicine."

J.Lo and Marc split in July 2011 after seven years of marriage, and she started dating Casper four months later. Marc filed for divorce in April 2012, but it's yet to be finalized.

"Jennifer and Marc have always been competitive about who's led a better life since their breakup," said the source. "Now with Chloe, Marc is feeling smug."

CHER'S HEROIN NIGHTMARE!

She fears troubled son Elijah Blue will RELAPSE – and ships him off to rehab

Chaz Bono

Elijah Blue Allman has been boozing again, say sources

The singer organized an intervention for her son

IN a stunning development, Cher and her transgender son Chaz have been rocked to the core over a heroin drug nightmare!

The showbiz icon's troubled son Elijah Blue Allman is boozing again after years of sobriety, and Cher, 66, is wracked by fears that the former junkie will go back on heroin. So she shipped him off to rehab, The ENQUIRER has learned.

Cher organized an intervention when she learned her 36-year-old wild child had relapsed, sources say, and Chaz, 43, played a major role.

"Cher was blown away when she found out Elijah was drinking again," a family source told The ENQUIRER. "But she shifted into protective mother mode and took charge of getting him off booze and any drugs he may be doing for good. The first thing Cher did was to get Chaz on board. Chaz has always tried to watch out for his little brother, so his involvement was key."

THE OSCAR-WINNING ACTRESS HAD organized a similar intervention in 2003 for Elijah, whose father is rock legend Gregg Allman.

Mel Gibson

"Cher thought he'd gotten clean then, and this time she got right in Elijah's face and read him the riot act," said the source. "She threatened to cut him off financially if he didn't get help, and Chaz was right at her side. They double-teamed Elijah, and he had no choice but to give in."

The "Believe" singer also recruited her pal Mel Gibson to help, according to the source.

"Mel is close with a guy who runs an exclusive treatment center in Malibu, and the next thing you know, Elijah was admitted," said the source. "Fortunately, he offered no resistance."

Cher opened up about Elijah in a 2010 interview, saying that he was "doing really well. He's a good artist, a painter."

Elijah, who's also an aspiring musician, has been living with his fiancee, Marieangela "Angie" King, at his mother's Malibu mansion. They met in Cologne, Germany, where Angie, 25, was playing in a band with her four siblings.

As The ENQUIRER has reported, Cher was shaken when she learned that Elijah was engaged to Angie, who was raised in the controversial sex cult Children of God. But she'd come to accept her, said the source.

"Cher was hoping Elijah would marry Angie and settle down," added the source. "Now she's just praying he can kick his booze habit and stay far away from heroin."

Daniel Day-Lewis' 19-YEAR-FEUD WITH BROTHER

Daniel's brother Sean helped a writer with an unauthorized biography of the actor

Oscar winner told him to "$#@! OFF & GET A LIFE"

"LINCOLN" star Daniel Day-Lewis is the toast of TinselTown after winning his third Best Actor Oscar for his portrayal of the 16th president – but there is one family member who may never get a chance to congratulate him.

Daniel hasn't spoken to his half-brother Sean in 19 years! The rift is the result of a bitter fight that erupted when Sean, 81, helped an author with an unauthorized biography of Daniel.

Day-Lewis as Lincoln

NOW, SEAN, A FORMER journalist, desperately wants to get back in touch with the 55-year-old superstar, and he insists the only help he gave the author of the unauthorized biography of Daniel was a copy of his own earlier book about their famous dad, the acclaimed poet Cecil Day-Lewis.

"I wanted him to get the facts right, and he didn't even do that," Sean complained to an interviewer. "He got birthdays on the wrong days. It was full of errors. Anyway, he acknowledged my help in the foreword, and Dan saw that and completely blew me out of the water." Furious, the star of "There Will Be Blood" phoned his brother and told him to "ing get a life" and to " off," recalled Sean.

"I couldn't get a word in. That was in 1994, and it was our last conversation."

Ironically, Sean, who is Cecil's son by first wife Mary King, was close to his half-brother when Daniel was growing up.

"We got on quite well," he said. "I was allowed to beat him at ping-pong."

They remained close when their father died of pancreatic cancer in 1972. But the book Sean wrote about their dad, published in 1980, also upset family members because he decided to discuss his father's extramarital affairs.

Now as he nears the end of his life, Sean still hopes to reconcile with his younger brother, who lives most of the time in Ireland. But Daniel has turned a cold shoulder to his plea. by STEPHANIE WILBURN

BEN AFFLECK and Matt Damon may be best buds, but sources say their wives can't stand each other!

"The two families socialize frequently," an insider told The ENQUIRER.

"But despite Matt and Ben's decades-long working partnership and friendship, their wives have never warmed to each other."

Just days later, Matt's wife Luciana Barroso pushed him into announcing they're planning a destination wedding in April – more than seven years after they tied the knot at City Hall in New York City.

Matt and Ben got a Best Screenplay Oscar for "Good Will Hunting" in '97

"Luciana has always felt that Matt is more talented and way more deserving of recognition than Ben," an insider told The ENQUIRER.

"It burned her up seeing Ben feted for months like he's the King of Hollywood."

So sources say green-eyed Luciana, 37, goaded Matt – who shares a Best Screenplay Oscar with Ben for the 1997 drama "Good Will Hunting" – into sending out "save the date" invites to their wedding.

"IT WAS TOTALLY UNNECESSARY, BUT Luciana wanted to stick it to Ben," said the source.

And even though Matt and Luciana have four children – her daughter Alexia, 13, and their girls Isabella, 6, Gia,

Teen Casanova Jaden Smith has quit courting 17-year-old Kendall Jenner and has been spotted on cozy dates on two continents with her little sister – 15-year-old Kylie.

But Will and his wife Jada Pinkett-Smith are determined to keep their son from getting tangled up in the scandal-plagued Kardashian reality show empire.

Before Jaden went on his London date, his concerned parents laid down the rules – the only way he could go is if Will acted as escort.

Miracle baby A CUT ABOVE

Pair of scissors saves tiny tot's life

Born at just 23 weeks, she was so small that doctors were not only unsure that she would survive, they were uncertain whether they should even try to save her.

But when Maddalena weighed in at the one-pound mark – the minimum weight that a baby in Britain must hit to be considered viable – they fought for her life.

Only later did they discover that Maddalena was actually just 13 1/2 ounces – and a pair of scissors accidentally left on the scale had pushed her over the "viable" mark.

"It really was a miracle!" gushed her grateful mom Kate.

"But for a pair of scissors Maddalena wouldn't be with us today. If ever we needed proof that someone is watching over us – this is it."

DR. RYAN WATKINS, A PHYSICIAN at the Royal Sussex Hospital in Brighton, England, where Maddalena was born, explained: "We make an assessment at birth as to whether it's appropriate to offer and continue intensive care, and as part of that assessment we weigh the baby.

"That's what saved Maddalena's life."

Sadly, the older twin, Isabella, lived only a few weeks. And things turned dire for little Maddalena just one week after her birth, when she faced another medical crisis.

Her bowel became perforated – a potential death sentence. Then her liver ruptured. Amazingly, a team of dedicated doctors pulled her through a second time.

"The surgeon said the next day, 'I can't believe this. She's like an iron lady. I've never seen an infant fight her way through all this,'" her mom recalled.

But Maddalena did, spending more than four months in the hospital before her mother and father Renato, a plumber, were able to take her to their home in Lewes.

Today the miracle baby weighs 7 1/2 pounds.

"She's thriving and happy," said her mom. "We're just so grateful to have her."

Kate even got congratulations from her Virgin Atlantic boss Richard Branson.

"He blogged about Maddalena on his Twitter account," said Kate. "He and the company have been so kind to us all."

Proud dad Renato added: "I'm the happiest guy in the world with our beautiful baby with the incredible will to live.

"This is proof that miracles really do happen!"

Edwin Schlossberg and Caroline Kennedy

CAROLINE'S NEW JFK

- Jack, 20, being groomed to be president
- His deathbed pledge to Teddy Kennedy
- How hunk saved his parents' marriage

THE KENNEDY family is secretly grooming Caroline's tall, handsome son Jack to be the next JFK!

Sources tell The ENQUIRER that the Camelot torch was passed to Jack Schlossberg – son of Caroline and her husband Edwin – at the deathbed of his dying great-uncle Ted Kennedy three and a half years ago.

"Jack clutched the senator's limp hand," revealed a family insider. "With tears in his eyes, he whispered that he wouldn't let Teddy down.

"HE PROMISED TO FOLLOW IN HIS grandfather JFK's footsteps and one day run for president. He told Teddy, 'I realize that's my destiny.' "

At that moment, the source says the dying senator regained enough strength to gently squeeze Jack's hand, and a smile crept across his pale face.

"Not long after that heartfelt farewell, Teddy closed his eyes and took his final breath," the source continued. "It's almost as if by hearing Jack's vow he knew at long last that the family's political future was assured, and he was finally able to be at peace."

Edward Kennedy

Now, in a sensational, behind-the-scenes exclusive, The ENQUIRER can reveal details about the dashing 20-year-old Yale University student, including his unbridled political ambitions, how he kept his parents from divorcing and his surprising vendetta against TV's most respected newswoman.

In an interview during the Democratic National Convention last September, Jack said: "Politics definitely interests me. I'm most interested in public service...something that I got from being part of my family."

Incredibly, the hunky Ivy Leaguer has already demonstrated diplomatic skills by rescuing his parents' 26-year union, says a source.

In 2008, the marriage appeared to completely unravel when Caroline's close friendship with "New York Times" publisher Arthur

Eddie Murphy is seeing stars

"COMEDY legend Eddie Murphy has a secret project – he's working behind the scenes to turn his oldest son into a superstar.

Eric Brandon Murphy, called "Brando" by pals, has been performing stand-up routines in recent months at small, under-the-radar clubs in Los Angeles, and The ENQUIRER has learned that the 23-year-old is perfecting his craft thanks to expert coaching from his dad.

"Pinch" Sulzberger Jr. became the subject of rumors in Manhattan social circles.

"Edwin was furious because he felt Caroline was embarrassing him," said the insider. "The couple secretly split and it looked like they were heading to divorce court.

"Showing poise beyond his years, Jack sat them down and reminded them of what great parents they were and said they needed to remain strong as a family."

Caroline and Edwin – who also have daughters Rose, 24, and Tatiana, 22 – took his advice to heart and mended the rift.

But he hardly showed that kind of compassion for 83-year-old Barbara Walters. Jack slammed the legendary journalist in the Yale student newspaper last year, calling her scheduled speaking engagement a "disappointment."

HE ALSO RIDICULED HER ADVANCED AGE, saying she "may be partially fossilized" and "has a pants suit for every day of the millennium."

When word got back to Barbara, "she wondered how Caroline could raise such a rude son!" said the insider.

"But Caroline couldn't be prouder of Jack and the path he's taking," said the insider. "She's confident that someday, it will once again be Camelot at the White House."

Eddie as "Mr. T" in a skit with Joe Piscopo on "Saturday Night Live" in the 1980s

"He's teaching his son all his stand-up comedy tricks. He wants Brando to be as successful as he is. And it could work. Brando is an attentive student who idolizes his dad."

Audiences are amazed at how much Brando's looks and style resemble his father's, said the insider, who attended the aspiring comic's March 3 performance at Santa Monica's Dakota Lounge.

"Brando uses everything he's learned from his dad, mostly off-color jokes peppered with profanity," said the source. "And he delivers them smoothly.

"His dad never attends his performances at the small clubs because he thinks it's too distracting. And although Brando takes his father's pointers, he still wants to make an impression on his own."

BRANDO, WHOSE MOM IS EDDIE'S FORMER GIRLFRIEND Paulette McNeely, is setting his sights high by trying to emulate his dad. Eddie was already writing and performing at age 15 and was cast by "Saturday Night Live" when he was just 19. Since then, his movies – including "Beverly Hills Cop," "48 Hours," "The Nutty Professor" and "Coming to America" – have grossed more than $3.7 billion.

But someday it may be up to Brando to keep alive the Murphy legacy. Out of all of Eddie's eight children, so far he is the only one to take up comedy.

"It's in his genes," said the source. "The crowds love him."

The "prisoners" all swooned, except for one tough-looking babe – who went butch/ballistic when the star started patting down her sweet li'l lady love. "What the * are you doing!" bellowed the green-eyed monster. "Get your *ing hands off my girlfriend!" Backing off, Rihanna hissed cattily: "You need to chill... I'm just playin'." But the purr-former and her posse quickly padded off to the opposite end of the bar to avoid a cat-astrophe!

Despite desperate pleas by JUSTIN THEROUX, JENNIFER ANISTON's flatly refused to let a tattoo artist prick her fiance's name onto her naked skin – even though she's inscribed her epidermis with the name of her deceased dog, Norman! Now that the couple's altar-bound, says an insider, heavily-tattooed Justin keeps pleading that the very best marriage present his love could give him would be an indelible inscription of his name on her sexy skin! But sadly, Jennifer's put down her foot – which, by the way, is where she displays the sacred name of "Norman." (Aw, c'mon Jen...treat Justin like a dog!)

■ At ZSA ZSA GABOR's fabled Bel-Air mansion, some 200 guests assembled at a party to celebrate the legendary Old Hollywood icon's 96th birthday – hosted by hubby PRINCE FREDERIC VON ANHALT, who was higher than a German Eagle on pot – but no one caught so much as a glimpse of the guest of honor: Ailing Zsa Zsa was locked away in her bedroom suite, a guard standing at the door! An attendee told me that Frederic, who was wearing dark glasses, "admitted to several guests that he'd been smoking pot and was pretty high...he was giggling nonstop!" Poor Zsa Zsa...hope she got a bite of birthday cake.

■ No, SETH MACFARLANE won't host the Academy Awards again – HE'LL BE TOO DAMN BUSY hosting the prime-time variety show that swooning execs at ABC are begging him to helm after his socko Oscar ratings and – more importantly – a huge jump in the youth demographic! "Seth proved he could draw a big younger audience, and that's gold to the network. As we speak, they're meeting with him to star on his own show." So who'll host next year's Oscars? Here's the super-secret short list smuggled via My Network Spy: Ex-Prez BILL CLINTON (WOW!), JIMMY KIMMEL, JUSTIN TIMBERLAKE, NEIL PATRICK HARRIS, the team of JAMIE FOXX and CHANNING TATUM, and DANIEL RADCLIFFE. Stay tuned...

SIZZLE TIME: The always colorful CeeLo Green brings extra sparkle to the opening night celebration of "LOBERACE," his new Vegas show, named after his music idol, the flamboyant Liberace.

■ Most red carpet critics put sexy, elegant REESE WITHERSPOON on their Oscars' Best-Dressed List, but New Mommy – who birthed Kid #3 last September – was overheard griping to a galpal over lunch at Sugarfish in Brentwood that she HATED how her twin glories let her down in that swanky Louis Vuitton gown. Wailed Witherspoon: "I wish I was still nursing – then my boobs would have been overflowing from my dress, instead of being barely able to hold it up!" Girl, cut yourself a break – you looked absolutely fab, not to mention legally blonde!

But Hollywood veteran JAMIE LEE CURTIS didn't agree with Seth's cat, tweeting @Curtisleejamie: "Seth MacFarlane and the Oscars' Hostile, Ugly, Sexist Night!" (FYI: Tweet me @IMwalkergossip.)

■ One last word on the Oscars: A moment I look forward to in every awards show is the "In Memoriam" sequence, which affords a sentimental moment for farewells to stars we've loved and lost – and it's way past high time for the Academy to cease its lamentable, inexplicable practice of ignoring – whether purposely or not – the deaths of even our biggest stars! This year they ignored LARRY HAGMAN, ANDY GRIFFITH, PHYLLIS DILLER and SHERMAN HEMSLEY. Year after year, the Academy passes over such stars as FARRAH FAWCETT, BEA ARTHUR, HARRY MORGAN, etc. As we say in showbiz, guys – GET YOUR ACT TOGETHER!

DANCE PARTY

SHAKE IT UP! Josh Duhamel and Julianne Hough pump up the jam, exploding into action with the wild Harlem Shake at the Berlin premiere of their flick "Safe Haven."

■ Happy to announce that ever since ALEC BALDWIN and I patched up our headline-making feud – he called me a "whore...and goat-footed queen," then soothed the sting by adding "and all my male lovers agree" – I am now, apparently, the only journalist on the planet the "30 Rock" star is NOT battling (at the moment, anyway)! And even though Baldwin's declared on the record that entertainment journalists "cheapen and demystify show business" – and that he desperately wants TMZ's HARVEY LEVIN "to die breathing his last breath looking into my eyes" – the dad-to-be's apparently mellowed enough to allow new wife HILARIA THOMAS to join the tabloid TV show "Extra." A warm welcome to our world, Mrs. Baldwin – but a word of warning: Don't ever walk up on your husband unexpectedly while carrying a camera in your hand. (Oh, I'm kidding! Seriously... good luck.)

NO POOLING AROUND: The strain is clear on Nicole Eggert's face as the former "Baywatch" babe trains hard for ABC's celebrity diving competition "Splash," which debuts March 19.

■ "Lincoln" star SALLY FIELD made a startling confession to a gathering of fans: Four score and seven years ago, admits "Missus Lincoln," she had a heart-thumping crush on director STEVEN SPIELBERG and flirted furiously – but sadly, they never formed a union because he had "other fish to fry!" Back when the Hollywood heavyweights were young upstarts on the Universal lot, Sally – sizzle-hot in movies and TV – eyeballed Spielberg and was instantly smitten, so she had their managers arrange a getting-to-know-you meeting. Steven showed up hoping for a directing job, but quickly discovered that work was not the agenda when lovestruck Sally kept staring at him through big, dreamy eyes. Recalled the bubbly star: "He didn't get work, but he liked me!!" (Really, Sally...He really, really liked you ....??)

Sean was on the cover of his dad's spiritual book and DVD; he dated several Dallas Cowboys cheerleaders; he likes to play Words With Friends on his iPhone; he's a big fan of Texas A&M University's Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, who watch his show religiously; his No. 1 celebrity fan is Hank Azaria

WHAT SEAN'S HIDING from 'Bachelor' beauties

Reality hunk's SECRETS EXPOSED

"THE BACHELOR" Sean Lowe may be an open book to the 25 women he's romanced on the hit ABC series, but he's managed to keep a few secrets – until now!

Here, exclusively for ENQUIRER readers, are some hush-hush facts about the 29-year-old hunk.

■ He's a wordsmith. A closet spelling bee fanatic, Sean loves to whip out his iPhone and play the popular Scrabble-like game Words With Friends. He's a pro who's notched the highest scores among friends and family.

■ He's part of a sorority – sort of. The Texas native is a big fan of Texas A&M University's Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Its members watch "The Bachelor" religiously and are rooting for Sean to find true love.

■ He's a "prayer warrior." Long before he became famous for his six-pack abs and dating life, Sean – a member of the Plymouth Park Baptist Church in Irving, Texas – was featured on the cover of his father Jay's spiritual book and DVD, "Witnessing Made Easy."

■ He's a night owl! The guy would rather study and work all night than get some shuteye. "Sean can survive on three hours of sleep," says a pal. "All through college he would stay up all night long – not partying – doing his schoolwork!"

■ He's a fierce shopper and total clotheshorse! With his brother-in-law Andrew in tow, shopper Sean picked out his entire wardrobe for his stint as a contestant on "The Bachelorette." So he was a little disappointed when ABC's wardrobe department chose all his clothes for his starring role as "The Bachelor."

■ He's a furniture fanatic! Sean and a few close friends in Dallas launched a business called Factory Girl that creates one-of-a-kind and custom-made furnishings. Oh, and they design purses too, but Sean leaves that task to someone else!

■ Sean's number one celebrity fan is Hank Azaria, star of the big-screen hit "Birdcage," the '90s sitcom "Mad About You" and TV's "The Simpsons." Azaria watches "The Bachelor" with his girlfriend.

■ Before starring as "The Bachelor," studly Sean dated several Dallas Cowboys cheerleaders.

■ Sean has actually been engaged for three months. His proposal during the three-hour "Bachelor" finale airing March 11 was filmed before Thanksgiving.

■ So how did Sean fill his time between dates and when the show wasn't filming? He'll tell you that he was working long, hard days, but his sister says that what he really did was sleep!

First lady of HOLLYWOOD

The president doesn't want Michelle "going Hollywood"

Michelle Obama desperate for SHOWBIZ CAREER

HOLLYWOOD, here she comes!

After her surprise Oscar cameo, Michelle Obama is fast-tracking a plan to host a TV talk show and launch an acting career – while she's still first lady!

But sources say President Barack Obama doesn't want his wife "going Hollywood" until after they leave the White House.

"Michelle has been bitten by the Hollywood bug bad," said a source.

"BUT BARACK HAS WARNED her to focus on issues that are more proper for a first lady, such as education and healthy eating for children. He's told Michelle that if she accepts any offers for TV or movie gigs while he's in office, it will blow up his presidency."

WHILE beloved Nancy Reagan's health rapidly deteriorates, the former first lady's children are already fighting over her $15 million estate.

And the battle lines have been drawn with Nancy's biological kids Ron, 54, and Patti Davis, 60, on one side versus their dad's 67-year-old adopted son Michael on the other.

Insiders say the two are begging Nancy, 91, to completely freeze Michael out of her will!

Ron and Nancy

"BOTH RON AND PATTI CAN'T STAND Michael," revealed a family friend. "They feel that when Nancy dies, Michael doesn't deserve a dime of the Reagan estate."

"But Michael believes he deserves something since all the money comes from his dad's property," continued the friend. "Meanwhile, he hates Ron and Patti with a passion. They never supported their dad politically, as he did."

Michael is especially bitter at Ron for publishing "My Father at 100" in 2011. The conservative radio talk-show host took to his Twitter page to denounce the book and its claim that the elder Reagan may have had Alzheimer's when he was president.

"My brother seems to want to sell out his father to sell books...my father did not suffer from Alzheimer's in the 1980s," Michael furiously tweeted.

He later added: "Ron, my brother, was an embarrassment to my father when he was alive and today (after the book's publication) he became an embarrassment to his mother."

But Ron insists Nancy loved the book and that she felt Michael was just being "mean" to him.

As The ENQUIRER revealed last week, the family

The 91-year-old is caught in a family squabble

But sources say the 49-year-old first lady isn't willing to sit on her hands. "Michelle wants a TV studio in the White House where she can host a celebrity talk show, and she wants to spend more time in Hollywood pursuing movie and TV roles," said the insider.

"She's told Barack, 'I helped get you re-elected. Now let me do what I want – and I'm not going to wait four years!'"

Michelle was the surprise of the Feb. 24 Oscar telecast when she presented the Academy Award for best picture via a live feed from the White House.

That followed recent spots on "Late Night with Jimmy Fallon" and "Rachael Ray," and a guest-starring role on the Nickelodeon sitcom "iCarly."

She's also done "Late Show with David Letterman" four times and appeared on "Dr. Oz," "The View," "The Tonight Show," "Ellen" and the reality TV show "The Biggest Loser."

And she's come under fire from some critics. "Washington Post" columnist Jennifer Rubin complained that "she is the first lady for goodness sakes. She's not a Hollywood celebrity."

And FOX news commentator Bill O'Reilly scoffed that it was all "propaganda to make (the Obamas) look glamorous."

BUT ONE TV HOTSHOT believes Mrs. Obama would be a dynamite talk-show host.

"Daytime syndicators are desperate for a new voice, and she is tailor-made for it," said former CNN president Jon Klein.

The source added: "Michelle has made friends with George Clooney and Will Smith, and she's also a big fan of directors like Steven Spielberg and Kathryn Bigelow. That whole world is open to her. It's just a question of timing, and whether she'll jump in fully before she leaves the White House."

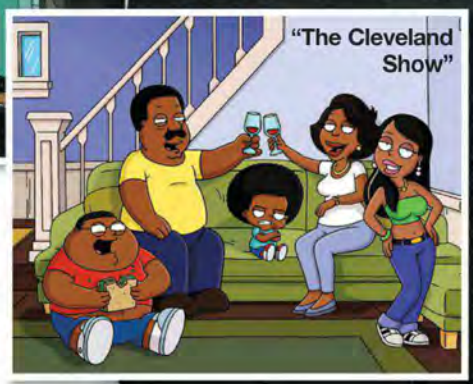
BOOZE SAVED SETH'S LIFE!

'Family Guy' creator MISSED FATAL 9/11 FLIGHT WITH HANGOVER

FOX's hit show "Family Guy"



"The Cleveland Show"

MacFarlane is a comedy genius, gifted pianist, writer and singer

CHEEKY Oscar host Seth MacFarlane shouldn't be alive today!

MacFarlane, 39, was ticketed to be on one of the planes that crashed into the World Trade Center on 9/11, but the hungover entertainer showed up 15 minutes late to the airport.

That's just one of the surprising secrets behind the wealthy and handsome "Family Guy" creator, Hollywood's $100 million man and the highest paid writer in television.

"By all rights, Seth shouldn't be here," said an insider. "He missed the plane because he was out boozing the night before the flight and got to the airport late. His travel agent was a half-hour off on the departure time, but he still shouldn't have been cutting it that close."

The Oscar host later admitted he was "very, very, very lucky."

FANS WILL ALSO BE SURPRISED TO learn that Seth was a child prodigy. As early as age 2, he was drawing cartoon characters Fred Flintstone and Woody Woodpecker. And at age 9, he began publishing a weekly comic strip called "Walter Crouton" for the local Kent, Conn., newspaper, which paid him five dollars per week.

Besides being a comedy genius, Seth is also a gifted pianist and singer, who trained with the vocal coaches of Barbra Streisand and Frank Sinatra. He even released a big band/standards album in 2011. The recording was nominated in the "Best

MARIE OSMOND has fallen for a hot new guy – married "Les Miserables" superstar Hugh Jackman.

When the handsome actor showed up for his Feb. 25 interview on her new talk show, "Marie actually swooned and practically melted into the floor," an insider told The ENQUIRER.

"She fawned all over Hugh during the interview, and the entire crew noticed she was sitting on the edge of the couch as close as she could get to him. You could cut the

As anyone who watched the Oscars may surmise, Seth is also a big fan of "Star Trek." William Shatner, playing Captain Kirk from the original 1960s series, helped him pull off a shtick at the Academy Awards, and Seth loves to drop "Star Trek" jokes into his animated TV series. Now, he says he wants to do a remake of the sci-fi show in "very thoughtful, smartly written stories that transcend the science fiction audience."

It may come as no surprise that the irreverent funnyman is an atheist, but not many people know he's a distant cousin of actress Ashley Judd. Both are descendants of William Brewster, who came to America on the Mayflower.

But his lineage to an actress didn't keep Oscar perennial Jodie Foster from avoiding the Academy Awards because she heard that bad-boy Seth was going to take pot shots at her.

He didn't disappoint, cracking: "Tonight's ceremony is being watched by close to a billion people worldwide, which is why Jodie Foster will be up here in a bit to ask for her privacy."

Perhaps the biggest surprise about the genius behind such edgy programs as "American Dad" and "The Cleveland Show" is that he's an old-fashioned guy. A few years ago, fellow comedian Alex Borstein revealed: "Seth doesn't have e-mail at home, doesn't own a computer, and he doesn't really watch television."

The 53-year-old married mother of eight was so enthralled by Hugh's appearance that afterward she gushed on Twitter: "Just finished interviewing my dream guest."

Her attraction goes far deeper than the actor's striking good looks.

"THEY SHARE A LOVE FOR musical theater," said the source. "Singing and dancing are Marie's whole life. They bonded over the way they both feel so alive while performing on stage." The source adds that Marie's teen-like crush is "very amusing" to the 44-year-old "X-Men" hunk, who's been happily wed to Deborra-Lee Furness, 56, for nearly 17 years. "He's used to the catnip effect he has on women," confided the source.

But for Marie, her playful fantasy about Hugh – a dad of two adopted kids – is a welcome relief from the turmoil in her own life.

As The ENQUIRER revealed in early February, her SECOND marriage to FIRST husband Stephen Craig is on shaky ground because of her career obsession and workaholic ways.

Demand for her public appearances has never been greater, and in addition to television, Marie also headlines a sell-out show at the Flamingo Las Vegas hotel with her brother Donny.

BUT UNFORTUNATELY FOR the busy entertainer, her Hallmark Channel interview with Hugh could be the closest she gets to the heartthrob.

"Stephen is very jealous," revealed the source.

"After he learns how much his wife is into Hugh, I wouldn't be surprised if Stephen bans him from an encore."

Ask the Vet

WITH DR. JEFF LACROIX

Owning a pet can be a rewarding – but often puzzling – experience. ENQUIRER columnist, top veterinarian Dr. Jeff LaCroix, answers the toughest questions about your four-legged friends.

WHY DO DOGS NEED SEDATION FOR SIMPLE PROCEDURES?

Q. It seems that every time one of our dogs goes to the vet for treatment, he needs to be drugged. Sometimes he's given sedatives for things as simple as an ear flush or X-ray – and he needs to be knocked out just to have his teeth cleaned. I understand our vet wants our dog to be comfortable, but it seems like too much. It also adds considerably to the bill.

A. Animal patients are different than humans because they don't understand what is happening to them and typically don't cooperate by holding still and following directions. This behavior can endanger the pet as well as the animal hospital staff. While sedation for an ear cleaning or X-ray and general anesthesia for dental work may be excessive for humans, it is necessary for your pet. It is also beneficial since your dog will experience less stress and pain, and it will take a shorter time to perform the procedure. The extra expense is a cheap price to pay for a pet's comfort and well-being.

DO SNAKES NEED TO EAT LIVE PREY?

Q. My son has a corn snake. We always feed it killed prey. A wildlife biologist who spoke at my son's school said we should give it live prey because that is more "natural" for a snake. But we're squeamish about that and wonder if it's really necessary.

A. The truth is that captivity is not natural for a snake, either. Your son's snake is not spending its days searching for food, hiding from predators and doing other natural things. Instead, this animal is living in a comfortable, climate-controlled environment with its entire habitat needs met. Because this snake is a pet, it does not need "the thrill of the kill." So it's perfectly OK to continue using killed prey.

Sofia Vergara MISCARRIAGE HORROR

Hospital drama as 'Modern Family' beauty feared she lost surrogate baby she's expecting

SEXY Sofia Vergara has a BIG surprise up her sleeve – but it almost turned into a heartbreaking tragedy!

In a world exclusive scoop, The ENQUIRER can reveal that the 40-year-old "Modern Family" star is becoming a mom the modern way – using a close friend as a surrogate to carry her baby!

But the beauty's secret plan to start a family with fiance Nick Loeb nearly blew up when the surrogate was rushed to the hospital suffering terrifying symptoms of a miscarriage.

"After several hours, it was determined that the baby was fine, and so was the surrogate mom," said a source close to the couple. "Sofia thanked God that everything was OK."

THE LATINA BOMBSHELL – WHO already has a 20-year-old son – was pushed by Nick for months to have a child with her, and the source says that "after much soul searching," she finally relented.

As The ENQUIRER disclosed in December, the couple repeatedly visited reproductive specialists at UCLA Medical Center.

But sources say Nick didn't want Sofia to lose her gorgeous shape or have to take a break from her lucrative work as a pitchwoman for several products in both the Latin and American markets. So after much thought and consultation, she decided to find a surrogate.

"Rather than going through the trying process of hiring a stranger to serve as a surrogate, Sofia handpicked one of her healthiest and closest friends," the source told The ENQUIRER.

But something unexpected happened just two nights before the Feb. 24 Academy Awards, and it threatened to turn the couple's joy into a nightmare.

"Sofia's surrogate had developed pain and went to the hospital, fearing that she was going to have a miscarriage," said the source.

Sofia and Nick dashed from dinner at the BOA Steakhouse in West Hollywood and headed to the hospital in a panic.

Fortunately, it was a false alarm. But Sofia was spotted at the hospital, and to cover up her baby secret, sources say she put out word on her Instagram page that she had the flu.

Ironically, on "Modern Family," Sofia's character Gloria just had a baby, and she wore a prosthetic belly to appear pregnant. Now she's having a baby in real life – but without the belly! And her fiance is said to be even more nervous about it than she is.

"Nick has been on edge throughout the whole process," revealed the source. He's hot-headed and becoming a dad is testing him. But Sofia would not have gone through all this if she wasn't sure of her love and desire to marry Nick.

"Now, the only question is whether her wedding will come first – or the baby."

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

REVEALED! TIM MCGRAW HAS SECRET 'SON'

COUNTRY superstar Tim McGraw has a secret "son" he's been hiding from fans – and he's been contacting the young man behind the back of his wife Faith Hill, sources told The ENQUIRER.

The "I Like It, I Love It" singer helped raise Tyler Zarbo while engaged to the boy's mother, and despite Faith's raging jealousy, he's maintained a relationship with Tyler without her knowledge, the sources add.

"Tim McGraw was like a father to me when I was growing up," Tyler, now a 23-year-old college student in Orlando, Fla., told The ENQUIRER in an exclusive interview. "He saw me as the son he never had, and we've stayed in contact. I wish he could have remained as my substitute dad, but it just wasn't meant to be."

Tim, 45, began dating Tyler's mother, Kristine Donahue, after she was divorced from Tyler's biological father, a career soldier who started a second family, according to the sources.

Tim, left, sees himself in Tyler, says a source

THE SAD SITUATION ECHOED

Tim's experience with his own father, major league baseball star Tug McGraw. Tim was 11 when he discovered that Tug was his father.

But Tug, a relief pitcher with the New York Mets and Philadelphia Phillies, refused to acknowledge Tim as his son until seven years later. After that, they remained close until Tug died of cancer in 2004. In fact, Tim recorded the song "Live Like You Were Dying" in his father's honor.

"Tyler reminded Tim of himself as a child because neither of their dads were around when they were growing up," a source close to McGraw told The ENQUIRER.

As a result, the two grew very close, said another source.

"Tim made a vow to Kristine that he'd marry her and help raise her boy," said the second source.

– and wife Faith has NO IDEA ABOUT THEIR RELATIONSHIP

FULL SHOCKING STORY!

The bighearted singer even arranged for Tyler to be in his 1994 music video "Down on the Farm." But then Tim went on tour with Faith as his opening act, and the two singers fell head over heels in love.

Tim dumped Tyler's mom, and married Faith on Oct. 6, 1996.

"After that, Tim stayed in touch with Kristine and Tyler," said a source. "But when Faith found out, she was furious. Tim had to cut all ties to Kristine and keep his contact with Tyler under the radar."

While sources say Tim is devoted to 45-year-old Faith and their three daughters – Gracie, 15, Maggie, 14, and Audrey, 11 – her jealousy is out of control.

"Every time Tim glances at another woman, Faith jumps all over him," said a source. "She's never forgotten that Tim broke up with another woman to be with her, and she's worried that he could do it again – to her!"

Another source added: "When they got married, Tim promised Faith that he would never lie to her, and he doesn't. But he doesn't tell her everything. He's got some secrets to keep the peace."

Experts say John's drinking could damage his heart

John Edwards HEART ATTACK DRAMA

■ Disgraced politician rushed to hospital
■ Docs warn him he's killing himself

DOCTORS have warned John Edwards that he'll be dead in six months if he doesn't stop drinking!

The ENQUIRER has learned that the disgraced former presidential candidate, 59, suffered a heart attack scare in February, and his ex-mistress Rielle Hunter secretly rushed him to the hospital.

"John was at home when he started to feel pain and tightness in his chest," a family source told The ENQUIRER. "He was certain that he was having a heart attack, so he called Rielle. She rushed over from her place nearby and drove him to the emergency room."

After conducting tests and keeping him overnight for observation, doctors warned Edwards to cut back on the booze, sources said.

"John's been drinking too much wine and gin and tonics," revealed a close pal.

Ex-mistress Rielle with their love child Quinn, 5

"Doctors told him that he'd be dead in six months if he doesn't stop drinking."

After being released from N.C. Memorial Hospital, Edwards returned to the Chapel Hill, N.C., estate he shared with his late wife Elizabeth. He now lives there with his two youngest kids, Emma Claire, 14, and Jack, 12.

Edwards has a family history of heart disease, and he collapsed with chest pains while jogging in December 2011.

IN JANUARY 2012, HIS CRIMINAL TRIAL FOR misuse of campaign funds was postponed after his cardiologist claimed Edwards was scheduled to undergo heart surgery for an undisclosed condition.

Now, experts say Edwards' heavy boozing could damage his heart muscle with fatal results.

"Chronic drinking can severely damage heart muscles and lead to heart failure," Dr. Richard Stein, spokesman for the American Heart Association, told The ENQUIRER. "It can also cause hardening of the arteries, which can lead to a heart attack."

And Dr. Gabe Mirkin, author of "The Healthy Heart Miracle, added: "When the heart muscle becomes severely damaged, the patient is a certain candidate for premature and sudden death due to stroke, heart failure or heart attack."

Britney boyfriend's CRIMINAL SHAME

BRITNEY SPEARS has snagged a new beau – and an ENQUIRER investigation reveals he's hiding a criminal past!

David Lucado, a 27-year-old "field researcher" at an L.A. law firm, was busted for smuggling booze onto his high school campus.

ACCORDING TO DOCUMENTS OBTAINED BY The ENQUIRER, then-18-year-old Lucado was arrested for "possession of alcohol on school property" on Oct. 17, 2003, during his senior year at Liberty High School in Bedford, Va.

After pleading guilty, Lucado was sentenced to 50 hours of community service, placed on 12 months' probation, and fined $74 plus processing fees.

He and Britney were first spotted together having dinner on Valentine's Day at a Los Angeles sushi restaurant. Two days later, they were photographed golfing at the private Sherwood Country Club in Thousand Oaks, Calif., where Britney lives.

As The ENQUIRER reported, they were still just friends at that point, but a source says things heated up quickly after that. Lucado reportedly owes $28,000 to the IRS in back taxes, but it hasn't put a damper on his love life.

"David only recently relocated from Georgia to L.A., and he feels like he's hit the jackpot with Britney," said another insider.

"But she better watch out! He's a smooth talker, and the ladies love him."

Kate feels powerless over her husband's grandmom

KATE & QUEEN FEUDING – over royal tot

Her Majesty's NOT AMUSED by choice of godparents

PRINCE WILLIAM and his pregnant wife Kate are facing a new family crisis – his grandmother, Queen Elizabeth, has pooh-poohed Kate's choice of godparents!

Sources say the royal mom-to-be would like her wild-child sister Pippa and troubled younger brother James Middleton to be her baby's religious sponsors.

But the image-conscious queen feels Kate's siblings are "unsuitable," and wants the coveted roles for her son Prince Andrew and his 24-year-old daughter Princess Beatrice.

Pippa Middleton & brother James

Prince Andrew & Princess Beatrice

"It's the latest battle for William and Kate, and one that they very well could lose," a royal insider told The ENQUIRER.

"WILLIAM IS STILL VERY MUCH under his grandmother's thumb, and Kate's incredibly frustrated because she feels powerless."

Kate's brother James, a 25-year-old college dropout, earned royal scorn for his controversial business, which peddles cakes bearing the image of Princess Diana as well as novelty cakes featuring smutty slogans.

"On top of that, James is teetering on bankruptcy," said the source. "He had to hit up his family for money to bail him out."

Meanwhile, 29-year-old Pippa is considered "radioactive" for her party-girl lifestyle and the flop of her new book on entertaining, "Celebrate."

But Kate, 31, always assumed her siblings would be her baby's godparents "until the queen let it be known to her that they were unworthy role models for a royal heir, and she wants granddaughter Beatrice and William's uncle Andrew as the baby's official sponsors," said the source.

"Kate is heartbroken, and William changes the subject whenever she brings it up. It's Kate's first real taste of the queen's iron fist, and she doesn't like it."

Jennifer hugs her friend on a balcony in Hawaii

JENNIFER LAWRENCE celebrated her Best Actress Oscar by getting close to a girlfriend, smoking a funny looking cigarette and boozing it up on a hotel balcony in Hawaii!

Three days after accepting her Academy Award on Feb. 24, the 22-year-old "Silver Linings Playbook" star and a girlfriend were photographed tenderly embracing on the balcony of The Modern Honolulu hotel.

AS THE STUNNING pictures show, Jennifer was also swilling wine and clasping a hand-rolled cigarette that looked suspiciously like a marijuana joint. Even though the actress is not known to be a smoker, another shot shows her puffing away on it!

"She looked happy and relaxed, which may well have been due in part to the wine and the smoke," said a source.

Jack Nicholson

Jennifer celebrated her big win by getting her hair dyed black in a Beverly Hills salon before jetting off to Hawaii. But she was also there for work, shooting some scenes for the "Hunger Games" sequel.

Jennifer, who played an out-of-control sex addict in her Oscar-winning "Playbook" performance, made a big impression on the Academy Awards crowd by tripping over her voluminous Dior high-fashion gown on her way up the stairs to the stage.

Sexy Jennifer Lawrence GOING TO POT?

Oscar winner smokes something strange-looking & cuddles girlfriend

"I loved you in the movie," cooed silver-tongued Jack. "It was great...You look like an old girlfriend of mine."

Jennifer laughed. "Oh, really? Do I look like a new girlfriend?"

"I thought about it," replied the devilish actor. "I'll be waiting!"

But Jack didn't wait long. He soon called the beauty to ask her out on a date, and a source says Jennifer "was intrigued."

Added the insider: "Jack's smitten with Jennifer and loves the thrill of the chase. Not only is he gunning for romance with her, he's also on the lookout for a plum movie project the two can star in together."

Kris Jenner $10M WAR WITH KIM

Greedy Kardashian mom THREATENS TO SUE HER OWN DAUGHTER – say sources

IN A BRUTAL mother-daughter cage match, Kris Jenner threatened to slap daughter Kim Kardashian with a whopping $10 million lawsuit!

Sources say "momager" Kris hit the roof when Kim, who's expecting a baby girl with rapper beau Kanye West, implied she was on the verge of quitting the family's E! Network show "Keeping Up With the Kardashians."

"AFTER HEARING THAT Kim dissed the family empire in a magazine interview, Kris flipped out and called a summit at her office," revealed a close source.

With Kim, her brother Rob and Kris' husband Bruce Jenner at the meeting in late February, "Kris pointed a finger in Kim's face and told her that if she quit the show, she'd sue the living daylights out of her," the source added.

Kanye West

"Kris said she'd hit Kim up with a 'management fine' of $10 million and then prod E! into filing a lawsuit against her too.

"I'm not sure if Kris was just trying to scare Kim, but Kim was shaking and on the verge of tears, and for a minute it seemed as if Kris might actually haul off and slap her."

As the family's manager, Kris takes a 10 percent cut of all her children's earnings. And while Kim is her favorite, Kris is furious that the 32-year-old mom-to-be might ruin the family brand, said the source.

"Besides, with Kris focusing on the debut of her new talk show in June, she fully expects Kim to pick up the slack," noted the source.

The problems began when Kim hinted the eighth season of the family's flagship show, which begins airing in July, would be her last.

"Keeping Up With the Kardashians"

"I think there's always an evolution of, you know, what you want to do in life," she said in an interview, adding: "I'm shifting my priorities."

But after the tense scene with her mom, Kim appeared to back down.

Referring to "Keeping Up With the Kardashians" on her personal blog, she wrote: "...all of us are staying on through at least season 10. The show remains to be my number 1 priority..."

Despite that, "Kim and Kris are barely talking, and relations between Kanye and Kris have totally deteriorated," said the source.

Kris takes a 10 percent cut of all her children's earnings

Meanwhile, Kris is facing a boatload of problems. As The ENQUIRER has reported, the 57-year-old plans to undergo bladder surgery due to an incontinence problem that forced her to wear adult diapers.

SHE ALSO SUFFERED AN EMOTIONAL and physical collapse while trying to finalize her $175 million divorce deal and prep her upcoming talk show at the same time.

And she's waged a vicious battle of egos with Kanye over what could be his $250 million baby with Kim.

As for her latest bustup with Kim, "it's by far the worst fight they've ever had," said the source. "Kim feels like a prisoner of her mom's money-hungry business whims."

SURI CRUISE KIDNAP SHOCKER

FBI INSIDER TELLS ALL

SURI CRUISE is at the center of a bone-chilling kidnap shocker – and daddy Tom is so terrified his little girl could be abducted that he takes extraordinary steps to protect her round the clock.

The 50-year-old "Jack Reacher" star has long been the target of stalkers and death threats, but his fears for his precious daughter were stoked after a frightening incident that took place since his split from ex-wife Katie Holmes last June.

IN RESPONSE TO THE PERCEIVED threat against 6-year-old Suri, sources say Tom has brainstormed with risk analysts and abduction experts to assess the danger level to his child. Together, he and the security team have devised a multimillion-dollar plan to keep Suri out of harm's way. It includes specially trained, heavily armed bodyguards, constant video surveillance and a secret panic room!

New York-based private investigator Bo Dietl, a nationally renowned security expert and FBI insider, told The ENQUIRER: "There are a lot of sickos out there, and they know Tom's worth a LOT of money. Once his divorce was in the papers, it stirred up all the psychopaths.

"Obviously, he loves his daughter

Suri emerged from an SUV in NYC on Feb. 22...and a different girl dressed exactly the same left the same vehicle

Katie's panic as daughter RUNS OFF

Tom orders armed guards & security

Bitter exes united in concern

very, very much and people know that too."

Dietl says if he were heading up Suri's security, he'd handpick top bodyguards and make sure the girl and her mom were shadowed constantly.

Although Tom has always been security-conscious, The ENQUIRER has learned exclusively that the star had serious concerns about Suri's safety after she briefly "went missing" while out shopping with Katie in a New York City store.

"For a moment, Katie thought the worst – that someone had snatched Suri," revealed a source.

Bo Dietl

"As it turned out, Suri had just bolted down the aisle and disappeared in the crowd. But Katie's heart was in her throat. Tom exploded when he found out."

And sources say his fears only intensified in mid-November after seeing photos of Katie looking like she was dozing on a New York City subway with Suri wide awake on her lap.

"I think that would freak Tom out," continued the source. "It was the kind of situation that he'd always dreaded."

KIDNAP CONCERNS FIRST SURFACED after Tom and Katie's split last summer. At the time, multiple media sources reported that someone might try to abduct Suri in retaliation for Katie's blindsiding the Church of Scientology's most prominent member with divorce papers.

According to one newspaper, a neighbor alerted police to this possible scenario. It was also noted in the press that a mysterious white Escalade had parked outside Katie's New York residence and that the men inside the vehicle appeared to be monitoring Katie's and Suri's movements. There were no developments on those reports and no one was ever determined to be following Suri.

Despite their contentious split, insiders say Tom and Katie, 34, are on the same page when it comes to protecting their daughter, even working together to build a "panic room" in Katie's Manhattan apartment.

"It's certainly something she could hide in and use if there was a break-in – it could save her life," Dietl noted.

HEARING TECHNOLOGY – BREAKING NEWS!

American Company Hits A New Price Breakthrough!

RECHARGEABLE HEARING INVENTION NOW AVAILABLE TO THE U.S. PUBLIC FOR LESS THAN $30.

Company overwhelmed with orders for Rechargeable Sound Amplifier – no need for endless, costly battery changes for consumers!

Research shows that consumers ask for these main features!

1. Rechargeable technology! People are tired of wasting money on endless and costly battery changes!
2. Almost invisible design! Most people are sensitive to having any visible device in their ear!
3. Comfortable! Many customers prefer a lightweight and behind-the-ear design with a clear tube to the ear, that's truly comfortable to wear for as long as they want!
4. Crystal Clear Sound! Sound Amplifier users want a strong volume boost to increase the sound level of those everyday sounds around them – loud and clear!
5. Low price! Who does not want a bargain these days?

New technology and modern production techniques are driving down prices in so many areas. Still, many consumers are puzzled when they realize that most companies charge a fortune for Premium Level RECHARGEABLE Sound Amplifiers.

However, one company is quickly changing that, and has turned the industry upside down with a new RECHARGEABLE top-of-the-line solution, for less than $30.

How is that possible? Why not let the consumer pay through the nose, like so many other companies? The Clear-Hear HD manufacturer explains "There are so many solutions on the market, but many of them simply have bad sound quality – and others are just too expensive to fit many Americans' budgets"!

The company continues "We really want this technology to change people's lives, without any financial burden. At this company, we take pride in not developing inventions only for a few privileged"!

The public response from men and women to Clear-Hear HD has been overwhelming. "We are sometimes out of stock for a few days. We can't make them as fast as people are buying them". The company believes they are highly popular right now for 4 distinct reasons:

1) It's rechargeable. The new Clear-Hear HD completely eliminates the constant need of changing money-wasting batteries. It comes with its own charging stand and power adapter – it recharges fully while you sleep.

2) The sound quality is exceptional. That's why a person buys Clear-Hear HD in the first place. Because they want to make hearing other people, TVs, radios, etc, easier, with the extra boost in volume that a PREMIUM QUALITY Personal Sound Amplifier gives them. Buyers quickly see that Clear-Hear HD truly delivers crystal clear sound reception.

3) It's nearly invisible. Many people are sensitive about this topic, and don't really want any listening device to be seen. So Clear-Hear HD was designed to be ultra-small, lightweight and very comfortable. In fact, the clear tube design makes it almost invisible. Clear-Hear HD users report that it's so incredibly discreet that only they know it's there.

4) The price is absolutely astounding for the quality you get. Clear-Hear HD takes you from ordinary hearing to SUPER HEARING – increasing the weakest sound – at a super low price that anyone can afford.

It's not easy for Katie to adjust to juggling being a single mom and pursuing her career, says a source

KATIE HOLMES THERAPY BOMBSHELL

Actress 'traumatized' by relationship with Tom

NINE months after filing for divorce, Katie Holmes told pals she is in therapy to deal with the emotional aftermath of her marriage to Tom Cruise, say sources.

A close friend of the tormented actress told The ENQUIRER that Katie recently admitted she was in counseling and confessed: "Tom ruined me emotionally!"

Tom is a control freak, say sources

The friend points out that Katie, 34, has seemed to shy away from dating since her split from Tom and appears to feel comfortable around men who are unavailable to her – those that are either married or gay!

"KATIE WENT INTO THE MARRIAGE as a very healthy and normal person, but I think the years with Tom traumatized her," divulged the friend. "In my opinion, he basically stunted Katie's growth as an individual. She's had great difficulty opening herself up to love and romance again."

Since filing for divorce last summer, Katie has been erroneously linked with several men – including her attorney Jonathan Wolfe and her Broadway co-star Josh Hamilton both of them are happily married. Late last year, tongues wagged when she was spotted with another hunk, but her rep said that he's one of Katie's best pals...and gay.

According to the friend, Katie recently met "a handsome, single attorney," but that romance was over almost as soon as it began.

Clinical psychologist Dr. Judy Kuriansky, who has not treated Katie, told The ENQUIRER: "Katie was married to a man who seemed to take over and managed almost every aspect of her life. Emotionally, she's still very vulnerable.

"I think that's why she's only involved in relationships with men who are unavailable to her in one way or another. There are no expectations of anything other than friendship. There's no pressure on her to become intimate."

While Katie may not be ready for love, the friend says the counseling is helping.

"It's not easy adjusting to single life after being married for six years, especially a life as a single mom who's juggling parenting and a busy career," the friend added. "Katie just wants to be the best person she can be...and the best mother to Suri."

But the costs for the rest of Suri's security detail would be staggering – with conservative estimates coming in at more than $12 million to protect her until she's 18.

"For someone like Tom Cruise or his daughter Suri, the cost of security can get really expensive," Dietl explained. "My guess is that it would cost at least $1 million a year, maybe more.

"Bottom line is, you want to use all former law enforcement guys... perhaps even former intelligence operatives. And they cost a lot."

Tom reportedly uses retired cops for security

Dietl figures the cost per guard would run between $65-$100 an hour. With two guards working at all times, a year's protection for Suri alone would come in at a minimum of $1,138,800. By the time she turns 18 in 2024, the price tag for keeping her safe will have reached more than $12.5 million.

The source added that Tom and Katie are using high-tech video surveillance. And after another little girl – who looks and dresses just like Suri – was seen on outings with her, some people have speculated that the worried parents could try to confuse any would-be kidnappers with a look-alike.

ON FEB. 22, NEW YORK CITY photographer Dave Spencer snapped a picture of Suri's "twin" – dressed in the same boots and down jacket as Suri – emerging from a SUV in which Katie was a passenger. Some press went as far as calling the other little girl a "body double," with one observer – who claimed to have worked with private investigators in the past – quoted as saying: "I've seen this type of thing when stars have stalkers."

Although Katie's handlers strongly deny using a body double for Suri, sources say Tom has good reason to be concerned about his daughter's safety, in part because of his high profile role in the Church of Scientology. Over the years, he's been the target of stalkers, home invasions and even death threats by an anti-Scientology organization.

One group reportedly threatened to put anthrax in the air conditioning vents at his office. And published reports in 2008 said Tom and Katie were so afraid for their lives that they called in the FBI for help and sometimes traveled in bomb-proof vehicles.

OFFICIAL MUG SHOT

FIREFIGHTER PAID HOMELESS MAN TO KILL CHEERLEADER WIFE – COPS

A WEST POINT graduate proved he was no genius when he allegedly hired a homeless guy to murder his wife.

The grisly plot succeeded, but the bigmouthed hit man boasted about the crime to pals, didn't bother to ditch the murder weapon or his bloody clothes, and squealed on the plot's mastermind as soon as he was nabbed, according to cops. Now both dopes are behind bars on multiple charges and facing life in prison without parole.

"You'd think someone smart enough to graduate from West Point would have come up with a better plan," said a law enforcement source.

"In fact, you'd have to say that hiring a homeless guy as a hit man was pretty dumb."

George Tiaffay, a Las Vegas firefighter and 1994 graduate of West Point, hatched the hapless plan after deciding he'd rather have his wife Shauna, a 46-year-old cocktail waitress, murdered rather than give her money in a divorce, say cops. They have a daughter, Madison, now 9.

They add that Tiaffay, 40, offered $5,000 to homeless handyman Noel "Greyhound" Stevens to kill Shauna.

Tiaffay with wife Shauna and daughter Madison

The two men allegedly bought a hammer, knife and gloves at a Walmart on Sept. 15, 2012.

The next night, Stevens chickened out of killing Shauna, a former cheerleader, when she left the Palms Casino. But he was arrested on suspicion of burglary when a cop caught him carrying the knife, hammer, gloves and a ski mask in a bag.

Even though Stevens had been more or less caught in the act, cops say he and Tiaffay went back to Walmart and purchased another hammer on Sept. 19.

– but his plot to escape divorce battle BACKFIRES BADLY

Ten days later, Stevens allegedly let himself into Shauna's apartment with a key that Tiaffay had given him. When Shauna came home, Stevens bashed her on the head with the hammer 17 times, according to authorities.

The next morning, Tiaffay went to the apartment and called 911. He said he'd found Shauna lying on the floor with her head smashed in and several items missing.

BUT SHAUNA'S PALS IMMEDIATELY suspected Tiaffay, who they described as very controlling. Then police got a tip that Stevens, 37, was bragging about the murder.

Cops say they found Stevens at a campsite, along with the murder weapon and the jeans and T-shirt he'd worn during the murder.

"Shauna's blood was all over them," said the source.

Stevens confessed after being told he was facing the death penalty.

While Tiaffay's attorney insists the firefighter had nothing to do with the murder, authorities say Tiaffay called Stevens 86 times on his cell phone during the month of September, right up until Shauna's murder. The two men were also seen on surveillance video at Walmart purchasing the murder weapon.

Both were arrested for murder with use of a deadly weapon, conspiracy to commit murder and other charges. Their trial is set for January 2014.

"It's highly unusual to have a West Point graduate charged with murder," said the law enforcement source. "Then again, the crime of murder crosses all socio and economic barriers."

The cast of "One Day at a Time"

Bonnie Franklin's LAST WISH CAME TRUE

AS THE heartbreaking end in her year-long battle with pancreatic cancer approached, Bonnie Franklin felt blessed when her final wish – to die at home instead of a bleak hospital room – was granted.

The beloved, 69-year-old "One Day at a Time" star passed away peacefully on March 1 in her Encino, Calif., home surrounded by loved ones.

"Everyone knew the end was near and she desperately wanted to die in her own bed," revealed a family insider.

Just a few days earlier, Bonnie's family had made the agonizing decision to put her in a peaceful coma to ease her pain.

Before going under, the plucky actress uttered her last words: "I'm ready to see Marvin again" – a loving reference to her husband of 29 years, film producer Marvin Minoff, who died in 2009.

BONNIE HAD ALSO MADE SURE to say her goodbyes to former co-stars and close pals Valerie Bertinelli and Mackenzie Phillips, who played her daughters on TV.

"It was very difficult, because she'd always thought of Valerie and Mackenzie as if they were her own kids," confided the source.

HOLLYWOOD beauty Michelle Williams' romance with actor Jason Segel was doomed by her undying love for the late Heath Ledger, sources say.

Michelle, 32, and Ledger had split by the time he died in January 2008 of a prescription drug overdose. But sources say she remains devoted to his memory as well as their daughter Matilda, 7.

"One of my favorite things to do is to imagine we would have reunited," said the "My Week with Marilyn" star.

A source added: "Although she did her best to move on with Jason, Michelle has never stopped loving Heath."

The former "Dawson's Creek" cutie met "How I Met Your Mother" star Jason, 33, in early 2012, and he worked to win over both Michelle and her daughter.

"JASON ADORED MATILDA," SAID THE source. "He was always buying her little gifts, reading stories to her at night and taking her places."

In the fall, the couple moved into a rented apartment in Red Hook, N.Y., together. But the source says Michelle insisted on bringing along photos of Ledger, and the couple was often apart due to work commitments.

Then, in late October, their building was damaged by Hurricane Sandy, and the couple moved back into the apartment Michelle once shared with Ledger.

In January, Michelle told Jason she thought they should go their separate ways, said the source.

"Jason was heartbroken," revealed the source. "But Michelle just never felt the kind of passion for him that she'd felt for Heath."

Heath Ledger WRECKS MICHELLE'S ROMANCE

She dumps beau Segel because she can't forget her ex

Mackenzie and Valerie both offered support for their TV mom last September when she announced that she was battling pancreatic cancer. And, as The ENQUIRER reported at the time, bighearted Valerie became Bonnie's guardian angel.

"She even cooked hearty Italian dishes for her and delivered them personally," said an insider. "Bonnie was so grateful."

AFTER BONNIE DIED, VALERIE said in a statement: "My heart is breaking. Bonnie has always been one of the most important women in my life and was a second mother to me...She taught me how to navigate this business and life itself with grace and humor, and to always be true to yourself. I will miss her terribly."

The actress was laid to rest in a simple, private ceremony on March 4.

"Bonnie wanted it that way," her brother Bernard Franklin told The ENQUIRER. "Now we are working together to get through the loss. She was a wonderful woman who accomplished so much and we miss her."

Another brother, Richard Franklin, added: "She died too soon. She fought all the way. She was unbelievably brave."

Household chemicals LINKED TO ARTHRITIS

Common household chemicals called PFCs put women at greater risk for developing osteoarthritis, the most common joint disorder, according to a first-of-its-kind study.

The researchers did not find a similar risk among men from the chemicals used in everything from containers to nonstick cookware and even in carpeting and waterproof rain gear.

Once these chemical toxins get into the environment, "they just don't go away," cautions former Yale researcher Sarah Uhl. "In people, they last years."

As consumers, the good news is that maintaining a healthy lifestyle can reduce susceptibility to PFC damage.

DEPRESSION cuts shingles vaccine effect

How well the shingles vaccine works could depend on your mental health!

In a two-year study, UCLA researchers examining the immune system in people past 60, discovered that those with untreated depression were poorly protected by the shingles shot – making them more vulnerable to the painful condition.

But being treated for depression boosted the immune system's response to the vaccine.

"Efforts are...needed to identify and diagnose depressed elderly patients who might benefit from either a more potent vaccine or a multidose vaccination schedule," says UCLA researcher Dr. Michael Irwin.

Alert! Excess calcium CAN KILL

Calcium supplements are often recommended for women to prevent bone loss, but high amounts can lead to heart disease and death, according to a large Swedish study.

Researchers collected data on more than 61,000 women and found those whose combined calcium intake was higher than 1,400 mg a day from food and supplements had double the risk of dying from all causes compared with women on a 600 to 999 mg daily intake.

The bottom line is that too much calcium can negatively impact your health – speak with your doctor before taking supplements.

Folic acid reduces AUTISM RISK

A Norwegian study has found that a B vitamin can slash the risk of autism nearly in half.

They discovered that women who took folic acid supplements either before or early in their pregnancy had an astonishing 40 percent lower risk of giving birth to a child with autism.

But starting folic acid supplements later in pregnancy – by week 22 – did not lower the risk. "It appears that the reduced risk of childhood autism only reflects folic acid supplements, not food or other supplements," notes Dr. Pal Suren, lead study author at the Norwegian Institute of Public Health.

LEN FELDMAN'S BEST BETS ON TV

What's hot this week

The Young and the Restless

Monday, March 18, 12:30 p.m. ET, CBS

It's the fourth big wedding day for Victor Newman (Eric Braeden) and Nikki Newman (Melody Thomas Scott)! They've been married three times before, though one of those marriages was invalid. All told, Nikki is the most married female character on "The Young and the Restless" with 11 weddings already to her credit. Counting two invalid marriages and today's event, Nikki's full name is now Nikki Reed-Foster-Bancroft-DiSalvo-Newman-Abbott-Landers-Newman-Newman-Chow-Sharpe-Abbott-Newman! Victor's been hitched 14 times; 8 were legal, 2 were invalid, 1 was fake and 3 were annulled. Here's hoping that today's wedding – Victor's 15th and Nikki's 12th – is not only legit, but also lasts, as this timeless, award-winning daytime drama has for 39 years. And the 40th anniversary is just around the corner on March 26th.

Dancing with the Stars (Season Premiere)

Monday, March 18, 8 p.m. ET, ABC

Can Andy Dick actually dance? Is Olympic skating champion Dorothy Hamill as good on the dance floor as she is on the ice? Tonight, "Dance" fans will get an idea of who to root for as 11 new celebs tango with their pro partners and tangle with judges Carrie Ann Inaba, Bruno Tonioli and Len Goodman. Also stepping out in ballroom style are comedian D.L. Hughley, pro football player Jacoby Jones, country music legend Wynonna Judd, boxer Victor Ortiz, country cutie Kellie Pickler, "Shake it Up!" star Zendaya Coleman, "General Hospital" star Ingo Rademacher, 18-year-old gold medal gymnast Alexandra Raisman and "Real Housewives" star Lisa Vanderpump. Tom Bergeron and Brooke Burke-Charvet host.

Bates Motel (New Show!)

Monday, March 18, 10 p.m. ET, A&E

Ever wonder how Norman Bates got to be that cross-dressing murderous momma's boy from Alfred Hitchcock's horror movie masterpiece, "Psycho"? This chillingly entertaining prequel spins a bizarre and twisted tale about Norman (Freddie Highmore) and his mother, Norma (Vera Farmiga), who taught Norman how to clean up after Mommy's messy murders. Following her husband's horrible death, Norma buys a motel so she and her son can start fresh. But the original owner, who lost the place to the bank, shows up to terrorize her.

Bad idea! Highmore and Farmiga make a marvelously quirky murder duo in this macabre series that's loaded with nail-biting suspense, bloodcurdling horror and gallows humor in the Hitchcock tradition.

Shadow on the Mesa (Made-for-TV-Movie Premiere)

Saturday, March 23, 8 p.m. ET, Hallmark Movie Channel

Fans of cowboy flicks from "True Grit" to "Django Unchained" should enjoy this wild western starring Meredith Baxter, Gail O'Grady, Kevin Sorbo, Greg Evigan, Barry Corbin and Wes Brown. Bounty hunter Wes Rawlins (Brown) is out to avenge the brutal murder of his mother by two outlaws on the run. Seeking out his estranged father, rancher Ray Eastman (Sorbo), he finds Ray fighting a bloody feud against his corrupt neighbor (Evigan), who's intent on grabbing Ray's land. There, Wes learns the truth behind his mother's murder and all hell breaks loose in this emotionally powerful prime-time showdown packed with plenty of gunslinger gravitas.

BARKIN BOUNCED FROM 'NEW NORMAL'

Bosses sick of her diva tantrums

ELLEN BARKIN will get the boot from "The New Normal" – simply because she's so obnoxious!

That's what insiders are saying about the Emmy-winning actress, who plays Archie Bunker-like Jane Forrest on the edgy NBC sitcom. After repeatedly infuriating the cast and crew with her tantrums and diva-like behavior, according to the insiders, the producers are going to write her out of the show by banishing her character to rehab.

"Ellen will not be returning next season," claims a set source. "Her character will be sent to seek treatment for her drinking – and people on the show say they couldn't be happier."

The sitcom centers on a gay couple who crave a baby. So they hire a surrogate named Goldie, who's a single mom with a precocious 8-year-old daughter and overbearing grandmother played by Barkin.

AND THE 58-YEAR-OLD SCREEN veteran appears to be just as intolerable as her character!

"Ellen throws tantrums and rants," said the source. "In the beginning, everyone just rolled their eyes, but her mean-spirited tirades got old fast. There have been turnovers and shooting delays. In my opinion, it was mostly due to Ellen."

"To tell the truth, if the director didn't like her acting so much, she probably wouldn't have lasted this long. But since her character is going to rehab, they could conceivably bring her back. I think THAT would be everyone's worst nightmare!"

Luxury Skin Care Finally Comes To Walmart!

By Tiffany Strobel*

"Who says the only people who deserve flawless, youthful-looking skin are the rich and famous?"

Serious dark circles? Upper eyelid droop? Dark spots? Wrinkles? Saggy skin? You no longer have to visit high-priced retailers like Sephora, Bloomingdale's, Neiman Marcus, Saks Fifth Avenue, etc. to avail yourself of prestige skin care. After years of being on display at some of the most expensive retail counters in the world, Bremenn Research Labs® has been lured into the mass market by the retail giant Walmart. "Let's face it," said Chantelle Daines, Bremenn Spokesperson, "Walmart is the largest retailer in the world. On any given day more people will see our brand at Walmart than they would in all the prestige retailers combined. And because of the increase in production we are now able to dramatically reduce our costs and pass the savings on to the consumer." Finally, prestige skin care at an affordable price, all thanks to Walmart. See you at the cosmetic counter!

Every week, the photos that make America smile...

Oh Baby!

Sean Donelan

LEAPIN' LEPRECHAUNS!
There's not a cuter Irish lad to be found in all the land! This little charmer – decked out in a St. Patrick's Day suit made by his grandma – is his family's four-leaf clover. Sean, 14 months, lives with his parents, Patricia and Gary, in Milford, Mass. His great-grandma Mary Cabal of Woburn, Mass., will receive $50 for submitting the winning photo in this week's Oh Baby! contest.

WIN $50

Share your baby photo with America and you can win $50. E-mail it to: ohbaby@nationalenquirer.com. Photos should be scanned at 300 dpi and 5x7 inches and saved as a .jpg image. Or mail to: Oh Baby! Focus on Vegas

Oops!...Britney, don't do it again! I love you, girlfriend, but you've got to get your act together. You have money, looks, youth and talent. You don't need a man to lean on 24/7 (Lonely Britney Tries Online Dating, Feb. 18). If you're really serious about a Las Vegas run, focus on that.
– Mark O., Los Angeles, Calif.

Lame reward

I read The ENQUIRER all the time. The Acts of Kindness story in the Feb. 11 issue about janitor Patrick Morgan, who found $13,000 and turned it in, was great. Sadly, the owner of the money was a cheapskate. The paltry $60 reward was not an act of kindness by any means.
– Tony C., Elizaville, N.Y.

$50 Letter of the Week

Best wishes, Gomer

Golly! Good luck and congratulations on your recent marriage, Jim Nabors (Jim Nabors Marries Boyfriend, Feb. 11). I laughed aplenty at Gomer Pyle while growing up. Anyone who can create such a goofy character has to have a secure ego and a desire to make people feel good. Thanks, Jim!
– J.K.B., Elk Grove, Calif.

HOW TO PLAY

You must fill in every empty square in the Sudoku grid. There's no right way of going about this, but there is only ever one solution. The big grid is split into nine mini-grids. There are nine rows running left to right and nine columns running down. In every row, you must have each of the numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9. These can be in any order. The same applies to columns and mini-grids: place every number 1 through 9 in each column and in each mini-grid.

ACCIDENTAL HERO

Wrong-way subway rider SAVES MAN'S LIFE

AN ailing college student taking the subway to the hospital accidentally went the wrong way and wound up becoming a hero.

He saved a man who'd fallen onto the tracks as a train sped into the station.

"I was like, oh my God – this is not happening," recalled 23-year-old Dwight Orchard. "I threw my bag down (and) just jumped."

ORCHARD, A PLUMBING STUDENT at George Brown College in Toronto, told The ENQUIRER he'd been feeling feverish and weak for days. So on Jan. 8, he went to take a subway to Mackenzie Richmond Hospital. "I made a mistake and got on a train going northbound," said Orchard.

He got off at the next stop, St. Clair, and headed toward the southbound side of the station. As he descended the steps to the platform, Orchard saw someone fall to the ground and tumble onto the tracks.

Without a second thought, Orchard jumped down to the tracks – and that's when he noticed a train was approaching.

"The guy who'd fallen was moaning but pretty much unconscious," said Orchard. "I grabbed him under his arms and tried to get him to stand. But he wasn't really helping."

Meanwhile, on the platform a 40-year-old woman named Ren Niles saw the train coming and, along with other commuters, began screaming for it to stop.

Niles then knelt and tried to help Orchard lift the man, but she couldn't reach down far enough.

Dwight fortuitously ended up at this subway station

That's when Orchard forgot how sick he was. He felt adrenaline kick in and cradled the man in his arms like a baby. As the train bore down on them, he heaved the man up to the safety of the platform. Then he managed to hoist himself onto the platform as the train came to a screeching halt just feet away.

As it turned out, the unidentified passenger who'd fallen had been drinking. While emergency medical teams tended to him, Orchard drifted away to board the southbound train and continue on his way to the hospital.

Once there, he learned he had meningitis and a chest infection. Doctors gave him intravenous fluids for 10 hours to combat dehydration before sending him home with an antibiotic regimen.

And that's when he found out he was famous! Passenger Niles had snapped Orchard's photo and posted it online along with a description of his brave deed. The posting went viral, and suddenly Orchard was a media star with news outlets clamoring for interviews.

"It's a good feeling," he said.

When asked why he did what he did, he replied: "I had to."

Orchard, who says he hails from a small Canadian town where people are close, added: "We're used to helping others."
